SCATTERING FLOWERS (CLASSIC REPRINT) (HARDBACK)

Forgotten Books, 2018. Hardback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Scattering Flowers Almost one year ago I was commissioned by the Kentucky Conference to serve the Methodist Episcopal folk of Pikeville. Soon after arriving I was told of the exceedingly strange and sad circumstances of one Sister Kizzie Thornbury. By request I was directed to her home, accompanied by Mrs. Ashley. We were profoundly impressed with the simplicity and nobility of such a character as we found, and left that little humble home that afternoon feeling almost as the Translator did of Joan of Arc when he said: Surely the contrast between her and her century is the contrast between night and day. As a close student of her life for these months I found her to be large-natured, genuinely honest, out-spoken, generous, tender as charity and without envy. She has proven of invaluable aid in fighting every good fight in her silent way, in the Community in which she lives, and, frankly, I feel that she has nobly earned the right to be heard. When paying my second visit in this little home, some member of the family read to me a few short selections of poetry which had been written by Miss Thornbury. When the sister had stopped her reading I said, Why do you not have your work published? As quick as a flash she said, They are not worth it. After hearing more of them read I felt that they were worth it, and I asked for permission to have it done; so, dear reader, without any apology, for such would be super?uous, but with genuine pleasure I commend to you this little book of poems and testimonies, with the hope that you may read it with sincere...
