ELEMENTS OF THE ELECTROMAGNETIC THEORY OF LIGHT (CLASSIC REPRINT)

Forgotten Books. Paperback. Condition: New. 58 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 0.1in.1. The Origin of the Electromagnetic Theory. The electromagnetic theory of light, now for many years in universal acceptance, was proposed and developed by James Clerk Maxwell about the year 1865 By elimination, from his classical differential equations, of the electric current Maxwell has obtained, for the vector potential ψ , a differential equation of the second order which in the case of a non-conducting isotropic medium has assumed the form $\nabla^2 \psi = -M$ where ∇^2 is the Laplacian (Maxwells - ∇ borrowed from Hamiltons calculus of quaternions). Maxwells coefficients, the specific inductive capacity K , and the magnetic permeability μ , are not pure numbers. Let c be the ratio of the electromagnetic unit of electric charge to the electrostatic unit of charge. Then Maxwells coefficients are such that, for air (or vacuum), $K = 1$, $\mu = 1$, in the electrostatic system, $K = 1$, $\mu = 1$, in the electromagnetic system.
