Excerpt: . those under this size are sold to the canneries. The canning industry was first started about 1840, at Eastport, Me., but several years elapsed before it was successfully introduced. In 1880 there were twenty-three canneries in Maine, with a total capital of $289,000, remaining open from about April 1st to August 1st, and giving employment to about 650 factory hands and 2,000 fishermen. The quantity of fresh lobsters used amounted to about 9,500,000 pounds, valued at $95,000 to the fishermen. The value of the canned products was $238,000, an enhancement in value by the process of canning of $143,000. Seventeen provincial canneries are owned by Americans, as follows: One each in New Foundland, the Magdalen Islands, and Prince Edward Island, three in New Brunswick, and eleven in Nova Scotia. The total amount of capital invested in 1880 was $213,000; 10,000,000 pounds of fresh...
