Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Heredity and Social Fitness: A Study of Differential Mating in a Pennsylvania Family The object of this investigation was mainly twofold: First, to determine the mode of evolution of the various lines of a great network with reference to traits which have direct bearing on social efficiency; second, to study the variation in the grade of these traits and the relation of this variation to the types of mating. An answer was sought to the following questions: By what process does marked defect, such as lack of number-sense, or aggressiveness, disappear from some lines and persist in others? What measure of improvement is directly effected through selected matings? The data collected were further used to draw conclusions concerning comparative fecundity, comparative survival, differential migration, and various contentions of our immigration problem, and, finally, our conclusions were considered in their bearings on the present-day program for race betterment. The study comprises 1,822 individuals, nearly half of whom are in the direct line of descent from two pairs of German immigrants of more than a century ago....
