Not illustrated. 1907 Excerpt: .the surrounding countryside, he was free to devote himself to the contemplation of nature Thoreau was born in Concord, Mass., July 12, 1817 and spent most of his life in his native town. In 1845 he built with his own hands a small frame house on the shore of Walden Pond and lived there by himself for more than two years. It was here he wrote his first and most famous book which he named Walden, and here, also, was undoubtedly carried on much of the writing of his Week on the Concord and Merrimac Rivers. Concerning the location of his house, he says in Walden: Near the end of March 1845 I borrowed an axe and went down to the woods by Walden Pond nearest to where I intended to build my house and began to cut down some tall arrowy white pines, still in...
