Youth Yarns is a collection of 13 short stories for ages 8 and up. Humor, suspense and a subtle message make each of these stories memorable. The Haunted House: Two pre-teen trick-or-treaters explore a forbidden old house. Is it actually haunted, or was what they saw merely it a trick? To Grandpa, From Christopher: 10-year-old Christopher says he doesn't like goats, but his letters to Grandpa reveal a fickle heart. Cross That Bridge When You Get To It: A 13-year-old boy wants to look brave in front of his uncle, but he's terrified of heights and his Uncle wants him to walk across a bridge over a gorge. My Friend, the Geek: A popular Jr. High School student is befriended by a geek. At first he avoids a friendship, but some people are special in different ways. A Scream in the Night: When a city boy moves to the country with his parents, he expects to be bored, but he gets a surprise. Mystery of the Brass Hook: Two teen boys seek the truth to a myth about a peg-legged ghost. What they find strengthens their friendship. The Sourpuss: When a pre-teen boy has only an old woman as a companion, he makes the best of it - and wins something special the process. No One Knows: The desire to be fashionable turns into an opportunity for a young girl to show gratitude to her mother. Under the Palo Verde Tree: The desert doesn't offer much in the way of entertainment for its resident children, but it does offer an opportunity for compromise. Promise Not To Tell: There are some things that you should never promise not to...
